

Ziya Meral is a researcher, writer and a PhD candidate in Politics at the University of Cambridge. Mr. Meral has extensive field research experience in the Middle East, especially in Iran, Egypt and Turkey. The support of the Fellowship over 12 months will help Mr. Meral develop a policy model for states that see recurrent patterns of ethno-religious violence, particularly between Muslim and Christian groups.